>>> Workshops

Please list your workshop preferences from first to last (1-6):

- _____ Tithing and Biblical Standards of Giving — What does the Bible teach about giving? Drawing on the breadth of the Biblical witness regarding money and giving, this workshop provides theological insights and Biblical teaching tools to help you nurture faithful and generous giving.
- _____ Preaching and Stewardship — How can you create faithful sermons that honestly address the sometimes awkward topic of money and God? This workshop considers the theological and practical considerations that shape effective preaching for stewardship.
- _____ Planned Giving: What Every Church Can and Should Do — Churches need to help their members be good stewards of their lifetime assets. But many churches don't know how to get started with a planned giving program. This workshop lays out some simple steps that any church can take to begin to encourage legacy giving.
- _____ Key Questions in Assessing Your Church's Financial Future — How financially vulnerable is your congregation in the midst of changing economic realities? This workshop poses some key questions around debt, spending patterns, and revenue sources that your congregation can use to analyze its financial viability and steer a sound financial course.
- _____ Best Practices for Financial Integrity — Nothing is more critical to maintaining trust and encouraging giving than guarding against improprieties in the handing of church funds. This workshop will layout basic guidelines for clergy, staff, and volunteers to help assure transparency and sound handling of financial matters.
- _____ Using Endowments to Build the Future — If your church has an endowment or other permanently invested funds, are you using them to build the future or preserve the past? This workshop looks at policies for investing and spending that will help your church thrive, rather than merely survive.
